Welcome Message from the Organising Chairman

Dear Friends and Colleagues,

It gives me immense pride and pleasure to invite you to FUSICON 2026 in the historical and culturally dynamic city of Kolkata.

Functional and Female Urology is one of the most rapidly evolving domains in modern urology. This conference is an ideal platform to bring together experts, scholars, and trainees to exchange ideas and refine the art and science of managing complex urological disorders.

We assure you a thoughtfully crafted scientific program, curated by eminent faculty, which will provide practical takeaways for your clinical practice.

Beyond the sessions, we invite you to experience the unmatched cultural warmth and intellectual spirit of Bengal.

Looking forward to welcoming you in Kolkata.

Warm regards,

Dr. Kalyan Kumar Sarkar
Organising Chairman

FUSICON Section of USI

The Functional and Female Urology Section (FUSICON), under the Urological Society of India (USI), is dedicated to education, research, and the dissemination of clinical excellence in the following areas:

Neuro-urology and management of neurogenic bladder and bowel .
Anatomical and functional urinary disorders of the lower urinary tract in both genders
Urinary incontinence and pelvic floor disorders
Urodynamics and diagnostic algorithms
Female reconstructive urology
Minimally invasive approaches to voiding dysfunction

This section plays a pivotal role in advancing knowledge through annual conferences, training initiatives, collaborative studies, and policy recommendations. FUSICON encourages interdisciplinary dialogue and aims to set the benchmark in patient-centric functional urology care in India.

About East Zone

The East Zone of USI covers a diverse region comprising West Bengal, Odisha, Bihar, Jharkhand, Assam, Manipur and Arunachal Pradesh. It is a cradle of emerging urological talent and has historically contributed richly to national and international forums.

The zone is characterized by:

- Academic rigor and innovation
- Multi-institutional collaborations
- Zonal-level annual scientific meetings and surgical camps
- Support for research and publication

East Zone Chapter of the Urological Society of India is proud to be the academic host of FUSICON 2026 and welcomes all delegates with open arms.

About Conference

Join us for the FUSICON 2026, hosted by the Functional and Female Urology Section of the Urological Society of India, on April 17–18, 2026, in Kolkata, West Bengal.

FUSICON 2026 aims to raise the bar in scientific engagement in Functional and Female Urology by offering:

- Evidence-based sessions and real-world case scenarios
- International faculty delivering keynote talks
- Resident-centered education and skill enhancement modules
- Workshops on urodynamics, endoscopic techniques, and pelvic floor rehabilitation
- Industry-partnered technology showcases

The conference will cater to both seasoned specialists and early-career urologists looking to upskill in this dynamic field.

About Host City

Kolkata, the “City of Joy,” is a historic and cultural jewel where colonial grandeur, intellectual ferment, and festive spirit converge. Founded in 1690 and once the capital of British India, its legacy endures in landmarks like the Victoria Memorial, Fort William, and the Indian Museum. The Bengal Renaissance blossomed here, with visionaries such as Rabindranath Tagore, Swami Vivekananda, and Bankim Chandra Chattopadhyay shaping modern Indian thought and nationalism.

Today, Kolkata thrives as India’s cultural capital—celebrated for its literature, theatre, music, and art. Its streets hum with trams, bookshops, coffee houses, and bustling markets, offering a unique blend of old-world charm and modern dynamism. Festivals, especially Durga Puja, transform the city into a dazzling spectacle of artistry and devotion, reinforcing its identity as a metropolis that lives through collective celebration. Warm, hospitable, and spirited, Kolkata remains a living chronicle of India’s journey from colonial past to cultural pride.
